

Spread a Little Sunshine

Back row left to right: Quinten Meng, Andrew Sylvester, Ms. Marinaro, Joey Gearhart, and Destiny Boyd

Front Row left to right: Shane Strada and Marko Salgado

Anyone who has ever spent time lying in a hospital bed knows how slowly the time passes, but for a sick child it must feel like an eternity. That's why Ms. Brittany Marinaro's class at KRHS decided to brighten the day for some children in St. Joseph's Hospital. These care kit packages were filled with items the intended recipient would enjoy or may need while in the hospital:

- Art supplies
- Bubbles
- Books
- Legos
- KRHS T-Shirt
- Stress balls
- Chapstick
- Hand sanitizer

After they finished collecting donations, the students donated their lunch time to assemble the baskets. They wrapped them in cellophane and tied them with a ribbon. Each bundle included a card with get well wishes and a friendly note written by a student. A very pretty presentation for a very thoughtful gift. I have no doubt the children will be delighted when they receive one of these special care kits. Thank you to our KRHS students who continue to find ways to lift the spirits of others.